Gary-this was the response I was given from Demita when I asked about Lonestar receiving the FT1002 material. Lonestar will not treat the material it will go directly to Newpark. Now the only thing I need to figure out is if Lonestar brings it in terminates the manifest and then ships to Newpark or if it will be manifested to Newpark. I can check CERCLA status on Newpark. If Lonestar terminates the manifest it shouldn't matter but I can certainly check either way.

Good morning Beth,

This particular stream is unusual in that it does not qualify as an oily wastewater (TPH is very low). Therefore it would fall under the chemical water qualifications (Class C) based on Gulf Coast Waste Disposal Authority definition. Oily wastewater does not have the organic pretreatments.

See below:

This would be a C waste and subject to the C pretreatment standards:

Daily Max mg/L Max Monthly Avg mg/L o-Cresol (2-Methylphenol) 1.92 0.561

p-Cresol (4-Methylphenol) 0.698 0.205

2,4,6-Trichlorophenol 0.155 0.106

The analytical reflects:

2-Methylphenol 11.9

3&4-Methylphenol 8.63

2,4,6-Trichlorophenol 0.551

This stream is not a good candidate for the water plant. However, we do know of an outlet EcoServe in Winnie TX that can take it. Would you like me to pursue that option?

Beth:

It is about 64 miles (one way) to Newpark from our site. Will this just be a pass through or will Lonestar be doing some treatment and then sending on the Newpark? Also, is Newpark CERCLA approved? The estimate is $5200 and does it include the transportation costs? What will Newpark do with the material (deep well, water treatment?).

Thanks

Gary,

Attached is the profile for wastestream FT1002. Please sign and return both documents (note the Ecoserv profile has three tabs) and we'll get this in for approvals ASAP. Based on bid analysis received and reviewed this material will ship to Lonestar Ecology at .20/gallon for a total of approximately $5200 T&D. Due to Lonestar's pretreatment standards they will be passing this material onto Newpark for final disposal. We did solicit direct pricing from Newpark however they chose to submit a No Bid. Please call or email with questions.

Thanks,

Beth Crawford
